YOU REALLY NEED TO FIX YOUR HABIT OF FOLLOWING ANYONE YOU SEE
FOLLOWING A BOMBER IS SOMETHING LIKE INSTINCT. IT CAN'T BE HELPED INSTINCT MY ASS, ARE YOU A DOG?
HEY
IT'S SR-71
pains
WHERE!
hehehe "INSTINCT MY ASS"?
CHECK YOURSELF 'FOXHOUND'

Anyan's comments:

1,2: The Su-30, which has upgraded air-to-ground abilities, is in service in Russia, Indonesia, Vietnam, Angola, Ethiopia, and other places. Since it has enhanced ATG capabilities and has a top-tier position in its location, I have made her with a kind of "thug" feeling. It's pretty hard to know the entire Flanker family tree, let alone that of the Su-30. The russian naming scheme is terrible to wrap your head around and it's a nightmare for newcomers. Of course, I'm not thinking of separately putting mkm, mkk, etc variations.

3: The F-2 can mount up to 4 anti-ship missiles. Pretty appropriate for Japan, an island, let me tell ya.

4: The MiG-31 is MiG-25's sister. The MiG-31 attempted to intercept the Blackbird every time the SR-71 entered Soviet airspace, and even once locked onto it within effective range, but never actually fired a missile. The Blackbird must have been really pesky for the Foxhound (ironically a breed of a hunting dog)
